Agriculture and Manufacture.

Progress of any improvements previously reported.

1897 opened badly for the Sugar Industry. A drought which had already afflicted the Northern and Central districts for the last two months of 1896, after a few showers in January, gained in severity, and was persistent through the year, up to 5th. December, when it broke with a cyclone of exceptional character as regards the early date of its appearance, and the violence of the wind during its short duration. Considerable damage to buildings was occasioned by this storm, and some to Canes, but the Crop was for the most part already reaped, and the Canes for the next year were not sufficiently forward to suffer very severely. The damage by the wind was nothing in comparison with the benefit brought by the rains, for the coming crop. Unhappily the drought had been more or less severe over the whole of the Island; least felt in the South, but in the Northern and Eastern quarters, it was disastrous, many Estates experiencing the loss of 50 o/o up to 75 o/o of an average yield. The total production of the Colony is estimated at about 115,000 against over 150,000 tons in 1896. Prices have shewn very little improvement, owing partly to the immense production of beet root Sugar, and the fact that a rise in the value of the rupee in India, has permitted large importations of European Granulated Beet Sugar into that Market; and to aggravate the planters' difficulties the prices of all provisions, especially rice has been 50 o/o higher than before.

In view of this state of things, the Chamber of Agriculture opened a discussion upon the possibility of lightening the distress of Planters by encouraging the cultivation of provisions for men and beasts; lengthened debates took place, and it was agreed that nothing could be grown in substitution for the Sugar Cane. Notwithstanding however the resolution passed by the Chamber, the cultivation of food plants has very greatly increased and is likely to extend further.

Parcelling out land amongst the Indians proceeds on a large scale; in the majority of cases, no money passes for the first year or two, except the value of the Canes, if there be any ripe enough to cut in the first year. It is impossible to predict what will be the effect of this great settlement of labouring Indians upon the land; it will undoubtedly lead to a great increase in the production of Sugar Canes—raise the value of the land, and must ultimately lead to the Establishment of Central Factories, and the division of labour.

But the year closed with great depression. The report of the West India Committee pointed conclusively to the absolute necessity of assisting the Sugar growing Colonies either by direct Government Aid, or by steps for the abolition of the Foreign Bounty System; if they were to be saved from absolute ruin, and though Mauritius is in many ways in a better position as regards markets than the West India Colonies, yet the Planters woke up at last to the fact that, as their very existence depends upon the staple industry, it was better to face the Crisis and own that the Credit of the Industry cannot be sustained in present circumstances without aid from Government. At a crowded meeting at the Chamber of Agriculture in December, resolutions were passed urging the Colonial Government to assent to a loan of £500,000 at an easy rate of interest, to be applied principally to the improvement of Machinery, and the establishment of Central Factories, and also to the re-forestation of the Colony; the loan to be guaranteed by the Imperial Government.

No new machinery of any importance has been erected.

The cultivation of Tea has been extended, and produce of excellent quality has been put on the Market in limited supplies. While the quality is sufficiently good to enable it to compete on the English Market, the scale on which it has been produced has not been sufficiently large to shew whether the cost of Manufacture will permit of exporting it profitably.

Aloe cultivation is extremely limited.

FRED. NASH,

President of the Chamber of Agriculture, 1897.

EE

OF

METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS

TAKEN DURING THE YEAR

1897,

AT THE

ROYAL ALFRED OBSERVATORY,

MAURITIUS.

INTRODUCTION.

The Observatory is about 3 miles from the west coast and stands on a plain which is 179 feet above the sea-level. From W.S.W., through West to North, there is an uninterrupted view of the sea : and from North, through East, to S.E., the ground generally slopes from the Piton, the summit of which bears about four miles E. b. S. and is 917 feet above the sea-level. Between S.E. and S.W., there is a chain of mountains, the highest peak of which, the Pieterboth, bears nearly six miles due south, and has an altitude of 2635 feet above the sea. The nearest extremities of two spurs which run N. and N.W. from the Pieterboth, are at distances of three to four miles, and have an elevation of about 560 feet.

The Island is of volcanic origin, and the rocks are more or less magnetic. Around the Observatory the soil has a depth of 3 to 14 feet, below which is solid basalt.

The Standard Barometer (Newman, No. 128) has no error, and the cistern is 180.86 feet above the sea-level. No correction has been applied for the influence of gravity on the barometrical readings. For a pressure of 30.000 inches, the correction for the latitude of the Observatory is $-.060$ inch. The values given are corrected for temperature and capillarity, and reduced to sea-level.

For the pressure of the atmosphere the mean of the 9^h. and 15^h. observations gives approximately the mean for the day.

The thermometers are placed in a lofty room within a few feet of two large open windows, one facing the East and the other the South, so that the bulbs which are from 5 to 6 feet above the ground, are generally in a current of air. The mean of the 6^h. and 15^h. observations gives approximately the mean temperature for the day.

All the thermometers have been verified at the Kew Observatory. They have been frequently compared with the Observatory Standards, and when necessary, corrections have been applied for their respective errors.

The minimum thermometers have been read daily at 9, and the maximum at 15 hours.

The values of the Vapour-Tension and Relative Humidity have been computed from Glaisher's Hygrometrical Tables, eighth edition,

The Direction and Velocity of the Wind are recorded by a self-registering Kew anemometer by Casella, the cups of which are 51.2 feet above the surface of the ground.

For the Force of the Wind the following scale has been used.

Miles per hour.		Force.	Miles per hour.		Force.
From	0 to	3... = 0	From	35 to	40... = 7
"	4 "	8... = 1	"	41 "	48... = 8
"	9 "	13... = 2	"	49 "	56... = 9
"	14 "	18... = 3	"	57 "	65... = 10
"	19 "	23... = 4	"	66 "	75... = 11
"	24 "	28... = 5	"	76 "	90... = 12
"	29 "	34... = 6

A clear day is considered to be one on which the mean amount of cloud is below 7.

The rim of Glaisher's raingauge is 8 inches in diameter, and 10 inches above the surface of the ground. The rainfall is measured at 9^h., and the amount is set down to the day on which it is measured.

In the column headed "Remarks" the abbreviations are those adopted by the Meteorological Office, London.

The hours refer to Mauritius Civil Time.

RESULTS OF OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN 1897.

The mean temperature in the shade, between two open windows in a lofty room, was $74^{\circ}.0$, against an average of $73^{\circ}.5$ for the last 23 years ; absolute maximum temperature $88^{\circ}.0$ on January 18 ; absolute minimum $57^{\circ}.4$ on May 21.

Mean temperature in a screen on lawn $75^{\circ}.8$, against an average of $74^{\circ}.6$ for the last 13 years ; absolute maximum temperature $92^{\circ}.6$ on November 30 ; absolute minimum $53^{\circ}.1$ on May 21.

Highest temperature in the sun's rays $155^{\circ}.2$ on February 9 ; mean for the year $140^{\circ}.4$.

Highest temperature of the soil at a depth of 5 feet, $81^{\circ}.0$ on February 21 to 28 ; lowest $75^{\circ}.4$ on August 24 and 25. Highest at a depth of 10 feet, $78^{\circ}.6$ on April 30, May 1, 3 and 4, and 7 to 11 ; lowest $76^{\circ}.8$ January 1 and 2.

Actinometric observations were taken on those days on which the sky was free from cloud in the neighbourhood of the sun at, or near, apparent noon. The greatest mean effect for an exposure of 2 minutes was $10^{\circ}.33$ on November 6, the sun's mean altitude being $85^{\circ}.42'$; least $8^{\circ}.84$ on July 16, the sun's mean altitude being $48^{\circ}.31'$.

Total duration of bright sunshine 2824.6 hours, and mean proportion for year (constant sunshine being 1) 0.642.

Mean atmospheric pressure at sea-level (derived from hourly measurements of the barograms) 30.066 inches, against an average of 30.077 for the last 23 years ; greatest pressure 30.400 on September 7 ; least pressure 28.922 on December 5.

Mean dew-point 64.6 , against an average of $64^{\circ}.6$; highest 76.6 on January 14 ; lowest 48.9 on May 21.

Mean vapour-tension .620 inch, against an average of .619 ; highest .916 on January 14 ; lowest .346 on May 21.

Mean relative humidity 73.5 per cent, against an average of 74.7 ; highest 95.8 on July 27 ; lowest 37.8 on May 20.

The rainfall was 27.26 inches or 21.37 inches below the average for the last 23 years, and the least on record, being 2.48 inches less than in 1886, hitherto the year of least rainfall.

The greatest monthly rainfalls were 6.35 inches in January and 4.53 inches in December. The only months in which the rainfall was in excess of the average were June and September. In the month of March the rainfall was only 0.88 inch or 7.28 inches below the average.

The greatest fall in one day was 2.05 inches on December 6.

The number of days on which rain fell was 168 against an average of 202 for the last 23 years.

Lightning or thunder occurred on 21 days, against an average of 32 for the last 23 years.

The mean hourly velocity of the wind, was 12.0 miles, or 0.8 mile above the average for the last 22 years. Greatest velocity for one hour 71.0 on December 5. Mean direction $S 74^{\circ} - 17' E.$, against an average of $S 74^{\circ} - 00' E.$, for the last 21 years.

As far as it yet known, there were five tropical cyclones in the South Indian Ocean in the course of the year, one of which passed over Mauritius on the evening of December 5. Their tracks have been determined as accurately as is possible.

Storm warnings and weather Telegrams were issued on January 26, February 17, 18, 19, 22, 27 & 28, December 5 and 6, and 19-25.

46 Weather Charts of the South Indian Ocean have been prepared.

As usual, observations made on board of vessels in the Indian Ocean were tabulated and detailed accounts of gales and hurricanes recorded.

The magnetographs were at work throughout the year, and absolute values of the magnetic elements determined weekly. The mean Declination was $9^{\circ} - 43' - 37''.2$ West ; mean Dip $54^{\circ} - 27'.4$ South ; mean Horizontal Force 5.1834, mean Vertical Force 7.2552, and mean Total Force 8.9166 (foot—grain—second—units).

There were 36 magnetic disturbances during the year, but with the exception of Dec. 20 to 21 none of them were very large. The greatest occurred on April 16—21 and 23—26 ; Dec. 11—12 and 20—21.

The Total movements during the disturbances, were as follows :—

1897.	H. F. m. m. s. units.	V. F. m. m. s. units.	Declination. minutes of arc.
April ... 16 ^d — 21 ^d	.01615	small	8.2

December.. 11 — 12	.01619	small	15.0
December.. 20 — 21	.02332	.00341	9.0

564 photographs of the sun were taken. The sun was observed on 353 days, on 42 of which no spots were seen.

Observations for time were taken daily, when the weather permitted, and the time-ball on the Signal Mountain dropped three times a week.
